How much does a solar lease cost?

When someone buys solar panels outright, they can enjoy energy savings - and can usually break even after around just eight years. Although people will still save this amount with a solar lease, they'll also have to pay between $50 and $250 for the monthly fee.

Should you lease solar panels?

Thankfully, most leases include a 'power production guarantee', which means if your panels don't produce a certain amount of power, you'll pay less for your monthly lease payment. Although solar leases make panels more accessible by removing the upfront costs, users aren't able to save as much as they would if they buy the panels outright.

Does a solar lease cover a roof penetration warranty?

As well as covering the costs of the solar panel system, most solar lease suppliers also cover a roof penetration warranty. In some parts of the US, the weather is notoriously unreliable, which means solar panels can generate more energy on some days compared to others.

How much does a solar system cost?

But in just the last 12 years, the cost of an average solar system has cut in half, from $40,000 to $20,000, according to the Solar Energy Industries Association (SEIA). Coupled with the 30% federal tax credit, that's made buying solar panels much more affordable and the lifetime savings of ownership much greater.
