

Does Curaçao use wind and solar energy?

Since the 1980s, Curaçao has been gaining experience in applying wind and solar energy. Curaçao also distinguishes itself from the world with regard to the application of wind and solar energy. In addition, the focus is also on the use of biogas, energy storage and energy savings. Bulbaai conducted an extensive research in Curaçao.

How can Curaçao become sustainable in 2033?

To make Curaçao fully sustainable in 2033, the production of solar and wind energy is of great importance, as is proper energy storage. Wind turbines and solar panels play an important role in this. If traditional power generators are still necessary, then the use of biogas is a more sustainable choice.

Are solar panels a good idea in the Netherlands?

One of the frequent reservations about solar energy in the Netherlands is the country's weather. Yes, the Netherlands may not boast the sunniest of climates, but solar panels don't necessarily require blazing sun to function effectively. They can generate power even on cloudy days, albeit at a reduced efficiency.

How much electricity does Curaçao produce?

Unlike most countries in the world, Curaçao generates about 34 percent of the current electricity production through wind and solar energy. In the Netherlands, that is merely 6 percent. Engineer Richenel Bulbaai from Curaçao defended his dissertation on this subject on 11 October 2019 at the University of Twente.

What makes Curaçao different from other countries?
